3 Levels of Organizational Involvement:

- 1. Identify those gifted as social influencers and recommend them to a program.
- 2. Host your own LIM training club within your organization (find a champion, trainer, and coaches)
- 3. Get involved in the greater network (community projects, area training events, and multi-generational mentoring)

A system that benefits everyone, by not focusing on everyone.

Throughout history, tribal councils have sought to identify the future chiefs and then develop them to become great leaders, for the benefit of the tribe. That is the vision and philosophy of LIM.

How to Launch a LeadYoung Training Program in Your School or Organization

1

- Learn now the program works. Contact LIM.
- Identify your champion to run it.

2

- Your trainer receives training; builds a team.
- You identify student candidates; they enroll.

3

- Run the training curriculum; adult training option.
- Participate in other LIM events as able.

How you can get involved!

FUNDERS:

We don't want any young leader turned away due to money. School sponsors are sought now.

EDUCATORS:

Schools are the primary vehicle for young leader training. We need a champion at each school.

PARENTS:

Volunteer as coaches or trainers. We'll train you. Help us get into your student's school.

NETWORKERS:

If you know individuals who can open doors of opportunity, let us know!

LEADERS:

We need mentors, people available to talk to and even allow young leaders to shadow. We'll show you how.

If you are or know of someone in one or more of these categories, please contact us right away at info@kidlead.com or call 831.869.8532. Your help can go a long way in creating a community-wide network of young leader development.
